Summer has Finally Arrived - Has it Really?

It has taken a while until summer really arrived. Three weeks ago at the A&P Show in Christchurch it was windy, cold and miserable and a few days ago we had 28 degrees C. Granted this is in Central Hawke's Bay. It is wonderful to enjoy a bit of sunshine. The windy conditions, however, has reminded us that we may look forward to a dry summer with all its disadvantages on the farm.

Checking Fences

Feed preservation is important and for this reason you do not want wandering animals. You want them to be where you put them. This means that you have to make sure that your fences are in good condition i.e. without shorts. The easiest way to do this is check your fences with a Fence Doctor. This rather clever tool tells you with one push on the button the voltage on your fence and the current, which is an indicator how "healthy" your fences actually are. It also shows you the which direction any faults are in - a feature which saves you hours of precious time.

Insulators

At the same time it is important that you replace broken or missing insulators. By the way, did you know why our insulators are yellow?

- You can see from quite a distance if an insulator has been torn off
- Yellow is the colour which colour-blind people see twice as strongly as non-colour blind people

Red Snap'r offers a large variety of insulators for most applications (wood posts, waratahs, fiber rods, pigtails etc.). Wood post insulators are also available in bulk at unbeatable prices!
